25 years research focus on Gender studies

The faculty of catholic theology at the University of Graz has had a research focus on Gender studies for more 25 years. To further internationalization and offer this expertise to other faculties and universities which have less prominent or no theological gender competence, the university of Graz instituted an

International Doctorate and Post-Doc Forum for Gender studies in theology.

The forum supports doctorate candidates and post-doc researchers. It is aimed especially at those willing to discuss gender relevant theological questions in their doctorate or Habilitation theses with qualified researchers. Applicants from others than theological lines of research with gender specific questions are welcome (e.g. Bible reception in literature and art). For the forum in summer semester 2020, 19.–21.4.2019, 10 scholarships for travel and accommodation to/in Graz during the forum for incoming doctorate or post-doc attendees will be awarded. The project group in Graz will choose applicants according to quality of application and international diversity. The forum will commence on 19th April in the afternoon and end on the 21st at noon. For a full refund of travel costs participation in the whole forum is mandatory.

Please send applications with CV, project outline (max. 4 pages) and intended fields of your questions by 31.1.2020 to: i.fischer@uni-graz.at

The forum is open to students and scholars of all fields, scholarships are restricted to students under 45 years of age with an ongoing dissertation or Habilitation project in theology, humanities or cultural studies.
